"FINNIGAN'S wake"-vide a para. in last night's China Mail. We understand there is a general feeling abroad that the able Editor of our evening contemporary, who for so many years has posed as an authority on education-ye gods! -, would greatly strengthen his position by taking advantage of "the new era in the history of local education" and going in for the famous degree of A. S. S. . He has undoubted claims to the honour and we believe the fees of the ancient University of Aberdeen are quite moderate.

ANOTHER scandal is reported to have occurred yesterday at the neighbouring Holy City. Mr A. Marques, a son of Commander L. P. Marques, formerly proprietor of Camoës Gardens, was summarily arrested at the instance of the officer in command of the Macao scavenging fraternity who go by the name of "National Battalion." This institution, originally a body of volunteers, has lately been transformed, without any orders having been received from Lisbon to that effect, into a regular army corps, and Macao youths have been literally pressed into it by all manner of means available in the Holy City. Mr. Marques, relying on his rights of free citizenship, very properly refused to report himself at the headquarters of the volunteer rag-pickers; hence his arrest yesterday and forcible detention in the barracks, under a charge of desertion | It is to be hoped the Macao Chief Justice, who is now at the head of the Executive, will see fit to make use of his prerogatives, and give the myrmidons of the National Battalion their due.

CORRESPONDENT writes :- The statement made in this morning's Daily Press by a Mr. Jno. J. Dunn, who subscribes himself Chairman of the British Borneo Trading and Planting Company, Limited, that "Messrs, Abrahamson & Co. possess neither land nor saw mills in British North Borneo, and they are now unlikely to acquire them," is a direct falsehood, and is evidently made for interested purposes .- We happen to know that our correspondent is quite right in contradicting Mr. Dunn's assertion, and it is a mystery to us how that gentleman, assuming he is so well acquainted with British North Borneo'as he claims to be, could have made such an audacious statement. We have read Mr. Dunn's letter, and can assure him that he has thrown no new light on the new territory; British North Borneo is just as much a terra incognita now, and no more, as it was before he wroter Mithat Mr. Dunn sels our about Bornes -that is to say, all that is reliable and worth knowing-has been published in the local press half a dozen times at least, and a good deal more besides, Mr. Dunn, however, has succeeded in obtaining from our morning contemporary a very cheap advertisement for the British Borneo

Tinding and Planting Company, Limited.

TO-MORROW morning between 9 and 10.30 o'clock' the steam-launch carrying the Bethel flag will call, alongside any vessel hoisting code pennant C, to convey men ashore to tra.m. service at St. Peter's Scamen's Church, returning about 12.30.

THE China Mail wants the proprietors of houses in which gambling is carried on to be made liable to a penalty of a substantial kind-not necessarily a term in Major-General Gordon's select establishment, but a big fine. Just so ! Perhaps the sapient individual who made himself a first class idiot by suggesting such a glaring piece of folly will start operations by suggesting | this long-looked-for and most important report the penalty to be imposed on the proprietary of has been so long delayed? We have heard that the Hongkong Club! The Committee of that model establishment will oblige us, we are sure. by refraining, for the present at least, from choking "Brownie" with a copy of his precious

SOMFBODY, a German gentleman we believe, has started an opposition paper in Bangkok to the Bangkok Times. It is called the Siam Mercantile Gazette, and is, of course, going to revolvationise, politically, socially and commercially, the entire country. However, it will do nothing of the kind. Unless the Siam Mercantile Gazette is a holstered-up concern, started for certain well defined purposes and supported by public or private subsidies, it will never pay the cost of publication. The Bangkok managed journal, and yet we are assured by Mr. Lloyd Williamese, its experienced editor and proprietor, that he has 'not found millions in it.' It will take the whole of the European population of Siam to adequately support one English newspaper, and as the new venture appears to be in amateur hands it can have but a faint prospect of knocking out the older established paper. If the Siam Mercantile Gazette is to exist solely on its merits as a newspaper, its enterprising projector will find it advisable to put up the shutters, a sadder and a w ser man, within six

WE heard it mooted at the meeting of the Sanitary Board a few weeks ago that small-pox, our undesirable winter visitor, was expected to make its appearance about the middle of November next. Without asking the pessimistic prophet to give us his reasons for venturing such an astounding forecast, we may rest assured that epidemics possess an essentially erratic character and their appearance in one particular year. is anything but a pledge of their re-appearance at the same period next year, esaid that small-pox, in some form or other, prevails every winter in this colony, and chiefly among the native population. We do not remember having ever heard of this periodical prevalence of the disease, but are certain that, except occasionally, like last year, it has never attained the dimensions of an epidemic. Preventive measures should, moreover, be taken by the Sanitary Board against the spread of the fell disorder, and the Chinese, through their mouth-piece the Registrar-General, should of mud, deposit it at sea, and return. be told what to do and what to avoid doing order to be free from the contagion. It does not require much acumen to discern that most of the diseases which prevail among | REFERRING to a paragraph which appeared in the native population, and small-pox, above all, are owing to the unsanitary conditions in which they live, to the want of free air in their habitations, to the uncleanliness of their skin and winter clothing, and to the excessive quantity of salt used in their meals. Until reform and improvement be introduced into the Chinese domestic circle, the natives will be preys to all sorts of infirmities, and will promote the spread of epidemics to an alarming degree. We should expect the Sanitary Board to tackle the evil in its parent source, and to devise radical means of prevention or cure, rather than indulge in baseless alarms and in the display of signals of distress." OUR feeble morning contemporary says that the Hon, the Surveyor-General, on his retirement, decree dated September 22nd, 1887, the chiefs will naturally be the recipient of valedictory addresses and the subject of valedictory notices in the papers; and-hopes, now that he is about to sever his connection with the colony, that he will allow his name to be associated with something, either road, street, or building, by which it will be handed down to posterity. is to be hoped that Mr. Price will appreciate the high honor designed him by the Daily simple reason that it bears the owner's name Press, which for years has grevelled before his under the disguise of a minister plenipotentiary, Mightiness in an abject fashion peculiarly its own! Yes! dear Mr. Price, please oblige poor old Granny and allow your name to be associated with something in the colony-even if it is only that ante-diluvian p inting machine which makes night hideous in the vicinity of upper Wyndham Street. But the Daily Press errs in saying that "of all the large and important works Mr. Price" has undertaken, not one bears his own name." The very large and important work he undertook when he tried to ruin the Editor of the Hongkong Telegraph by inditing the most cowardly, contemptible, and lying letter ever made public in this colony, most certainly bore Mr. Price's own name, as a reference to the archives of the Colonial Secretary's department will satisfactorily prove. Another large and the Customs people in clearing his luggage, he important work, the criminal libel action against was put to a great deal of inconvenience besides the proprietor of this journal, also bore Mr. losing the opportunity of placing his sons in a Price's own name; and we fancy that there is a cood-deal-of Mrs-Prico-in-that-never-to-ber | While the common lot of passengers are pur to | Bisir, Higginboliam, and Churchill played a forgotten bogus Public Works Commission, which was alike the disgrace and laughing-stock of the colony: The Daily Press should get up a farewell banquet to the Honorable the Surveyor of people, who after a term of administrative; and the Club again went to the wickets. YESTERDAY afternoon a fatal accident occurred at Aberdeen Dock. A number of workmen were on a staging, engaged in stripping the copper from the bows, when the book which holds the anchor up slipped unaccountably, and fell on the boards. The staging tipped over, and the men fell into the water below, which was about six feet deep. One of them struck his head on the bottom, and shortly after being lifted out died from concussion of the brain.

IT is very rarely we can conscientiously agree with the Evening Bane-who could?-but, we certainly coincide with our contemporary's opinion that the $575 for the Fever Commission should not have been voted until the report of that body had been made public. Will Governor des Vœux kindly inform the community why it was the fault of the Government printerwhich we are very loth to believe, as Messrs. Noronha & Sons are well known to be most energetic and accurate in their business. But if such be the case, why was not the report sent to be printed elsewhere? There are numerous admirably appointed printing establishments is Hongkong, and we have yet to learn that the Government printing in a free trade colony is a monopoly. However, we are anxious to have the labours and recommendations of the Feyer Commission made public, and urge the Governor to lose no more time in delay which is as vexatious as it must be unnecessary.

SAYS the Singapore Free Press of the 9th inst. -A very curious looking craft, something between a torpedo boat and a sand barge, may be seen lying in the Roads just off Messrs: Gilfillan Times is, all things considered, a very ably Wood & Co.'s pier on Collyer Quay. It is the steam hopper dredger Soda-ga-ura Maru, built to order of the Japanese Government by Mes Simons & Co. of Renfrew. The vessel arrived this morning from the Clyde under the command. followed very closely by P. S. Mann with 84. of Captain McDougall, who speaks in high terms of his little vessel, which is only 106 grass tonnage. When off Cape Guardafui very bad weather was experienced, but the dredger behaved admirably. When it is taken into consideration that she has only ! inch bulwarks, and that during the storm nothing was swept off the deck, it speaks very well for her sea-going qualities. The Soda-ga-ura Maru is so constructed that she can run into a s ndbank and dredge ahead, making a pussage for herself. She can dredge 300 tons of mud in one hour, filling herself first and the barges afterwards. Her engines, which are of 45 h. p., make 150 revolutions a minute, and are capable of driving her seven knots. When loaded she can discharge her cargo almost instantaneously through four hoppers, which, when not landed with sand or mud, contain water, that is gradually forced out as the mud is pumped up into them. She has two of Brown's patent steam winches with three barrels working independently of each other. Over these barrels chains are run out forward and aft, to guide the vessel when at work. She is provided with the Lucigen light which is made on board, and which is capable of I turning night into day for 300 yards radius round the ship. The Soda-ga-ura Maru is a sister ship to the St. George, built by the same firm for the British Government and at present in use in Portsmouth harbour. She was taken there from the Clyde by Captain McDougall, who, as soon as he has safely delivered his present charge, will return home to take another similar vessel to Natal. The St. George made three trips daily in Portsmouth when at work, and it only takes her two hours to pump up 350 tons Soda-ga-ura Maru has a crew of fifteen all told. and will leave for Yokohama probably the day

The shooting competition, Police Inspectors and Sergeants v. the Constables, took place at Kowloon this afternoon, resulting in a complete victory for the Constables by 70 points. The light was rather bad and the winds unsteady for gold shooting. The firing at the 300 yards range was carried out under drizzling rain; the weather cleared up and the wind became more steady when firing at the 500 yards range commenced. The highest score was made by P. C. Watson, who made a very good score of 88; the second was P. C. McLellan with 85, P. C. Robertson made one within the possible at the 500 yards range. We hope the Inspectors' and Sergeants will cheer up and give the conquerors another chance of beating them. Appended are the scores :-

CRICKET:

THE GARRISON v. HONGKONG C. C.

This, the first of the leading matches, was started on the Cricket ground yesterday afternoon in splendid cricketing weather. Neither side played its full strength, the Garrison lacking the services of Lloyd and Graham of the 58th Regiment, and Major Miles, whilst the Club played a team that was anything of the Greeks. but representative. The Garrison took first innings, and sent in Major Churchill and Higginbotham, C. S. Barff and Sercombe-Smith Army, insists upon the necessity of an increase leading off the attack. Barff bowled a maiden. and then from Sercombe Smith's first ball the threatening aspect of affairs at Suakin and Major was sharply held in the slips-I for o. Major Johnston was next comer and a long stand was made, both batamen after being let off several times, hitting out vigorously and state that fighting there has resulted in the causing repeated changes of bowling. After putting together 29 Higginbotham fell a victim to a combination. of C. S. Barff and Coxon, and made room for F. H. Johnstone. Four for 87. Scanlan was next to go, being clean bowled by Darby-5 for 90. The "Doctor" had made 31 in dashing style-five 3's, six 2's and singles-, but he had one or two lives. No further stand was made after this, Coxon and Barif bowling capitally, and the fielding showed great improvement, Drummer Taylor being very smartly caught by Tomes in the long field, and an excellent catch by Coxon in the slips getting rid of Johnston after that batsman appeared well set. The innings eventually closed for 123, including no fewer than 14 extras. Disaster did not end here, as Dr. Sparrow, after playing good cricket for a dozen, failed to stop a good ball from Smith. Sercombe Smith and Davies then played out time, the score at gun-fire being 26

When play was resumed this afternoon the light was bad, and none of the Club side improved their average much. GNATONG, September 17th.

Rinchagong was yesterday occupied by our force from the Jelap Pass, consisting of four guns, 350 men of the Derbyshire Regiment and 400 Goorkhas; the force remained for the night at a village, our advance to which had been seriously impeded by broken bridges and small parties of the enemy firing from the jungle, and where our picquets were constantly disturbed during night by the Thibetans. We advanced 'yesterday morning to Chumbi, and returned some two miles on the Jalap Pass Side, to Rinchagong, where we bivouseked for the night, continuing to-day our march to Jalap and Gnatong. We learn that eleven thousand Thibetans were in front of Gnatong on Monday, but all resistance seems now broken, and the campaign is doubtless quite at an end.

CANTON.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT!)

Canton, October 19th, 1883. The recent triennial examination for the Kayou degree, held in this city by the Imperial Commissioner and under the superintendence of the Viceroy, acting ex officio as Governor of the Province, has not passed off without creating the elements of as pretty a political quarrel as it is possible to imagine. His Excellency the Viceroy may be one of the greatest of living Chinese scholars, but he evidently is not an ardent observer of the maxims laid down by the great sage Confucius The following incidents which occurred during these eventful examinations tend to show that in this Excellency's opinion, magnaniaity has no appreciative value, and vindictiveness has surpassing attractions and is a proper course to pursuetowards anyone thwarting his Excellency's interests however right or conscientious they

It will be remembered that last year during the minor examinations in the province of may have been.

Chihli, the Viceroy's son was a candidate. The Chief Imperial Examiner Hau is President of one of the Boards at Peking, and a literatus of the first stamp. He is likewise a native of this city where the family for benefations have occupied official positions of influence. By an accident it was discovered, on the completion of the examination, that the youthful Change counting on his father's position to pass him with honours, was " non est," and in sympathy with parental proclivities, had been pleasantly passing the time with Soochow syrens. This escapade Hsu felt be could not overlook; consequently young Chang was "scratched" just after the Viceroy had received numerous. congratulations, on his son's success. The upshot has been that Hsu's relatives and friends have had His Excellency's knife into them ever since much to the disconditure of various connections, of the family who held military and minor civil-positions here. These examinations also offered the Viceroy an opportunity for returning Han a Roland for an Oliver, which if rumour is to be credited, His Excellency fully availed himself of, inasmuch as he warned all the provincial officials who perform the subordinate duty of selecting such essays that deserve being submitted to the Imperial Examiners not to send any up emanating from members of the Flau family.- The consequence is that for the first time for generations this family of distinction are without a representative amongst the successful competitors. A row between the Viceroy and the Imperial examiner was the next act on the board. It came about by a san of the examiner sending a letter, in defiance of the law, into the Hall during the course of the examinations. The son accompanied his father from Peking and was communicating some domestic event and the letter was first given to the Viceroy who opened it, read it, and handed it to the Chief Examiner, complaining at the same time of the son's offence. The father replied that he did not wish to exonerate his son's breach lof the law, but at same time he pointed out that according to the law, the Vicercy had no right whatever to take upon himself the responsibility of opening the letter, without first summoning all the examining Board and opening it in their presence. This cheerful episode did not apparently tend to promote that harmony which should prevail on such important occasions. The next question which arose had reference to the capabilities of some of the students from the new university established by His Excellency within Imperial Examiner could not be induced to take so high an estimate of their endeavours, and the result is you look in vain for the names of any one of the Viceroy's "lambs" in the successful lists. In the final act the Viceroy took upon himself a most responsible step the result of which yet remains to be determined. As far as I can gather" the list of the successful candidates was posted for some hours in the usual place on the doors of the Examination His Excellency then had the names of the nineteenth candidate (a son of General Cheong of Formosa) cut out, and another candidate named Wong (a son of a member of the Hanliu college at Peking) substituted in his place. Opinions differ as to whether Cheong rightly deserved his place, for the Viceroy's partisans do not hesitate to say there is clear evidence that young Cheong " cribbed " horribly; on the other side Cheong's friends aver that Wong's father is a personal friend of His Excellency; be all this as it may, to outside eyes to calmly substitute, say, the nineteenth wrangler is a pretty autocratic measure and seems hardly defensible. If Cheong had been! fairly "scratched " and another candidate substituted, however strange, it would he comprehensible, but that young Wong should be considered exactly to suit the nineteenth place. after the examination, and by an official however exalted, not the responsible Imperial Examiner, must be regarded at all events as a most curious coincidence. It is said to be without parallel in the annals of the ruling (Manchu) dynasty, and it will be interesting to follow the "denouement."

Enough bad blood has been engendered by this unfortunate occurrence between the rival Cheang and Wong families, and if the Hau's now shore their oars in there is really no knowing whether the boat is ballasted sufficiently to withstand the storm which is browing. Great efforts are being made to restorea political equilibrium between the Viceroy and the Imperial Examiner who returns to Pelcing at the beginning of the week. At present the soreness on both sides still exists, but some palliative applications may be discovered within the next one or two days at all events sufficient to reduce the existing inflammation. The military examinations commence on Thursday, and by law, the Imperial civil examiner has to clear out from inis city previous to their doing so is so don't be surprised if he does not put in an appearance in Hongkong on Monday, and you will then be able to interview His Excellency, as to whether the matter can be treated as one of those curlous Chinese episodes in every day official life which you can defy anyone but an Immobile to be capable of comprehending.

If we remember rightly a fifty-cent musical box purchased in a hurry at Yokohama was thrown in along with the German suit which the head chief of the Marshal Islands received, but anyhow, that is only by the way. We have said the Imperial orders from Downing Street came late, and so they did,-very late, when it is remembered that the Queenslanders, if not the Australians, demanded the annexation of New Guinen as far back as August 1883.

For the dilatory movements of the English Government in this direction there have been very good and excellent reasons, entirely unfelt and uncared for by the majority of the Australian colonists. Our political economists on the banks of the Thames have long since asked each other why, by these constant annexations in remote parts of the world, they should saddle the nation with such increasing responsibilities and with territories which will incur many extra anxieties and more money to protect. The country is unable to adequately defend , what it already possesses without expending its treasure in increasing the objectionable burden. Not so think the Queenslanders; their idea is that no other nation but the mother-country must hold that part of New Guinea, because it is much too close to their own territories, and in such case, a possible mistake might easily be made by, say, France or Germany in the event of possession, in laying down and sticking to their own boundaries. In glancing at a man of those regions we find that the extreme northern point of Queensland, Cape York, is fully 90 miles from Cape Deliverance, the nearest point in New Guinea, which is consequently more than four times the distance which apparates the nearest point of England from that of France, and where error of such kinds would assuredly be no more easily committed than between Marseilles and Tunis, where they are well known to have occurred. Notwithstanding all that, we could have seen no great or particular objection to the annexation of that part of New Guinea if the Australian colonists had been a little more ready to defray the expenses of taking possession and providing for future maintenance. In this measure which they urged on the English Government for their own especial benefit, they showed a most remarkable and ridiculous silence when the quertion of cost was put to them, and finally did anything but stand up frankly and generously with the offer of contributing even a fair share of the expense. Why Australia should not have felt herself ready to pay the piper; who was to pipe for her especial benefit, or why Queensland -if she omitted to do so-did not first put the question to all her continental neighbours, is not very clear, but certainly they were all far more interested than the people in the mother country thousands of miles away. The Australians are not poor, indeed, they are passing rich; certainly much richer and better able individually to contribute to such advanced schemes than the "sweated" working classes of London or of Glasgow, who toil twelve and fourteen hours a day for the magnificent sum of half a crown. In the great island. continent of the Southern hemisphere there are probably not a hundred able-bodied men, willing. to work, who earn less than three half crowns for a rlay's work of eight hours. However, the Imperial Government have now discovered, would appear, a modus operandi, by which the work of annexing and maintaining can be conducted, and at this moment the whole of the south-east portion of New Guinea; with an area of 86,457, square miles, is a part of the British Empire.

It is not generally known that the whole of New Guinen as far back as 1793 was taken possession of by officers of the East India Company, and was actually annexed by the Council in Leadenhall Street. An island in Geelvink Bay, on the north-west coast, was also occupied by British troops for a period of two years, but the climate proving unhealthy the scheme of possession was finally given up and the country forgotten by European nations for some thirty years when the Dutch in 1825 annexed a sma portion of the western half of the island. The matter has again been brought to the notice of the British by the North Queenslanders who are a good deal engaged in the pearl-shell and belie-de-mer fisheries. During the years from '1842 to 1852 our cruisers were engaged on the south-cast coast, near the Torres Straits, in surveying and exploring, and in H. M. S. Rattlesnaks Professor Huxley formed one of a party of scientists about that period. time. In 1884, on the Australian Colonies | the lady's face. From protection to formal annexation: there is but one step and that step was announced the other day in a Brisbane telegram.

JUDICIAL ETIQUETTE.

'A curious question of judicial etiquette applied been just decided at the Birmingham County Court. When a lady entered the witness-box to be sworn the usher made to her the usual request that she should "remove her glove." The lady's counsel thereupon protested. He questioned the legality of the requirement, and quoted a recent Case at the Warwick Assizes, when Lord Bramwell, who is certainly a very high authority on during that ordeal of touch. Some people go so far further excuse of inadequate forms or shabby as to contend that in times when infectious fevers | surroundings. The etiquette that in good society are about, there may be something positively | compels men to wear for dinner and for ladies dangerous in the application of the naked fingers | society something better than their work a day to a volume that has gone through so many clothes has been derided by Bohemians and the

Can this be partly the reason | care, it ensures freshness and cleanliness, it why some witnessess kiss not the sacred volume | restrains ugly eccentricities, and it secures an but their thumbs?" The general impression outward equality for all. Nor do we believe amongst superstitious people is that the whole that we surround the Sovereign, or her Parliaceremony is complete and consistent, and that ment, or her Judges, with any needless cereif they omit any part of it they are not bound by their oath. Sometimes in county courts the witness, if not forced to speak out, will can dispense with outward demonstration of merely mumble something that sounds like the dignity and power. Instead of making our form of oath; while others believe that, if oaths less solemn, we should prefer greater they kiss their thumbs only, they do not impressiveness. In some countries the oath is commit the sin of false witness. It is pitiful not, as with us, gabbled over in an undertone by. that there should be belief in the moral efficacy | a subordinate official; it is formally administered of such silly evasions; yet the resistance of the by the Judge himself, and is therefore more Birmingham lady to the removal of her glove seriously regarded. The removal of the glove is may have been due not to any desire to escape | a mark of reverence, at the altar, when a girl is penalties, but to sanitary reasons alone. Or does | confirmed, receives the sacrament, or is married, the new objection spring from the modern fishion | and at court when she kisses the Queen's hand, of innumerable buttons to ladies' gloves? There also ungloved. 'We, therefore, do not see why a was a good old time in the distant past when | deposition expressly involving a sacred name one button sufficed to hold the covering of a should not also be marked and solemnised by girl's hand. Tennyson's lover meets his Maud | the removal of the glove. There is right reason at the head of the village street, and he "saw at the bottom of these customs and manners, the treasured splendour, her hand, come sliding and Baron Bramwell's respect for the time and out of her sacred glove." "She touched my trouble of the wearers of 14-button gloves seems hand with a smile so sweet, she made me divine | to us hardly in consonance with his usual comamends for a courtesy not returned." But if mon sense. Maud had worn 14 button gloves the quick "sliding" out of "the treasured splendour" would have been impossible. She would have taken two or three minutes to unfasten them all, or left her gloves still on; and then her touch would not have thrilled her lover as he felt the momentary presence of her little hand in his own. Lucky for Tennyson that he wrote before 14 buttons were invented; or do the lovers of to-day exchange sensations even through the barrier of kid gloves? If the old custom of touching the sacred volume in courts of justice with the naked hand only is abolished, it will be the disuse, in one respect, of what is really a very old and widespread ceremony. The origin of it is lost in the mists of antiquity, but amongst Eastern nations, from time immemorial, the removal of the vendor's glove, and its delivery to the purchaser, were supposed to complete the transaction. the fourth chapter of Ruth we read: "Now, this was the manner in former time in Israel concerning redeeming and concerning changing, for to confirm all things—a man plucked off his shoe and gave it to his neighbour; and this was a testimony in Israel. Therefore the kinsman said unto Boaz, Buy it for thee.' So he drew off his shoe." It is generally believed that the word translated "shoe" should be given as "glove," and that is in fact the form of the Chaldee para- INSURANCE at CURRENT RATES, payable either phrase of the passage. The error is the more natural if we bear in mind that "handshoe" was a and Australian Ports. primitive name for glove. There was another use of the glove—as a token of challenge. According to some learned men, the words in the ro8th Psalm, "Over Edom will I cast out my shoc," should be rendered "throw my glove"-that is, demand possession of the land. During the Middle. Ages, as everybody knows, this was the accepted form of challenge, and our Coronation ceremonies still retain it. The wearing of a lady's glove on a knight's helmet had a similar meaning; it was a general challenge to all who dared to deny the surpassing beauty of the giver. When gloves were costly and rare they were reserved for dignitaries; Archbishops and Bishops specially wore them as signs of their rank. The Council of Poities, to repress the extravagance and pride of the inferior clergy, restricted the use of "rings, sandals, and gloves" to Bishops. Baron Bramwell, who now allows witnesses to keep their gloves on, may not be aware that formerly an English Judge was expressly prohibited from wearing gloves on the bench, and it was only in case of a maiden assies that the sheriff presented him with a pair. The old custom of removing the glove whenever any ceremony had to be gone through for work to be done originated, no doubt, in times when these coverings were clumsy and rough. After a time, however, the removal implied homage or respect, and its retention disrespect or disregard of etiquette. It was an ancient custom in France and Germany that if a person entered the stables of a Prince or peer without removing his gloves the grooms could claim them, and impose a fee on their redemption. We still retain this custom on occasion. No lady or gentleman is married without taking off the glove from the right hand: presentation at the Court of the sovereign exacts the same ceremony. No lover would consider the clasp of a gloved hand a valid sign of betrothal, and we see from "Maud" that twenty to thirty years ago the removal of the glove was an essential preliminary even to a passing shake of the hand. The presentation of gloves is also part of a clergyman's per-In 1871 seventy-five young Australians sub- quisites at weddings, and is made to all the scribed the sum of Lioeach with which the sailing | guests at funeral receptions. Fly, but no great results has been recognised in all books except the followed, owing chiefly to the opposition of the statutes of the realm. Leigh Hunt, too, has natives who it is supposed had been badly treated | consecrated one use of the glove novel in both by all previous explorers. Previous to this, in its forms. "To leap was the Colonies thought proper to disavow he quick, return was quick, he has regained his place, act, and thus the matter fell through for that and flung the glove, but not with love, right in that." Mr. Bradlaugh's bill for substituting affirmations for oaths in all cases before the courts would dispense with New Testaments, removing gloves, kissing the book, and other ceremonies. The kissing, we suppose, is the ancient sign of pledge or devotion -still retained when Roman Catholics kiss relics or the Pope's toe. As regards many oaths now administered in the course of legal proceedings; nobody who has heard them rattled over by men accustomed to swear twenty or thirty times a day, but must regret the profane use of the sacred Name on to ladies has, says the London Dally Telegraph, | the most trivial occasions, and as a matter of official routine. In many of these cases affirmation implies a rational reform. As to allowing all witnesses to affirm instead of solemnly swearing, however, we are not quite sure but that the change may at first work considerable harm. An educated and conscientious man, deliberately testifying in a court of justice, will speak carefully, whether he has been sworn or not. these matters, rebuked one of his attendants | But we know, as a matter of fact, that there for telling a lady witness to take off her glove. are in England millions of men and women At Liverpool, in 1858, his Lordship also who are much more careful as witnesses on declared that "there is no reason why a witness oath than as witness examined without being should be required to remove his glove when sworn. THIS COMPANY has been formed for the purpose of supplying the want which has been felt for many years past, of a well-planned and well-fitted modern hotel of sufficient dimensions to accommodate the large and constantly growing passenger traffic through Singapore, as well as supply the great demand for temporary or permanent residential chambers. Singapore is the chief town of the British Crown Colony of the Straits Settlements, and is a leading place of call and coaling port on the great steam lines of communication with the Far East. It is moreover the centre of an extensive trade with India, China, the Dutch Indies, the Philippines, Siam, and other countries.

The present hotel accommodation in Singapore is quite inadequate, and it is proposed to acquire the fine site now partly occupied by the HOTEL de L'EUROPE, and build thereon a hotel of much larger dimensions, and greatly improved. construction and arrangement. Fully detailed plans have been prepared and the engagement of a first-class Manager is already secured.
